And today's financial tip:

I know that shares held in companies can be used as collateral for loans; can government securities such as bonds, bills and notes also be used as collateral?

Like any other security, government securities can also be used as collateral. As in charging shares, you are required to complete a charge form and have it certified by a broker dealer or notary public before submitting it to the ECSE. In this situation the length of the charge should not exceed the life of the security.
