Start planning for your retirement from an early age. If you start at age 25, an investment of $2,000 earning 10% average return could become $885,000 by age 65. Start 10 years later at age 35, and the same investment would yield only $329,000. The $20,000 not invested in those 10 years can cost you $556,000.
